TONY DUNGY AND CITIZENS ENERGY SEND 100 KIDS TO CAMP

SEYMOUR, IN (April 29, 2010) – Tony Dungy and Citizens Energy have partnered with SpringHill Camps, one of the nation’s largest nonprofit camping centers, to send 100 Indianapolis kids to summer camp.

Tony Dungy, #1 New York Times bestselling author and 2007 Super Bowl champion coach, has been a generous supporter of SpringHill for several years.

When asked about his partnership with SpringHill, Tony said, “SpringHill Camps does a great job ministering to our young people! They have pointed so many youth in the right direction and that is why I wanted to help.”

Because of the generosity of this scholarship program, several others have offered to match the scholarships allowing even more kids to have the summer camp experience. SpringHill is working with local community organizations and churches to find the group of kids who will benefit from this opportunity.

With locations throughout the Midwest, SpringHill annually serves more than 35,000 kids of all ages with what campers say has been “the experience of a lifetime.” They are excited to welcome a new flock of kids this summer and introduce them to their 40-plus year tradition of offering kids a healthy dose of fun.

Their mission is to create life-impacting experiences that enable young people to know and to grow in their relationship with Jesus Christ.
