Band: Fever Fever

In 2005, a few friends in Columbus, Ohio decided to start an adventure of playing music together. They were startled to find that their passion united and produced captivating music. Since Fever Fever originated as a few bored athletes, youth pastors, and students, they possess the ability to write music to which everyone can connect. Recognizing the need for music that surpasses their generation, they strive to help listeners discover the enchantment that first caught their attention. The band's live performance captures this experience with dynamic lights, a vintage, cozy atmosphere, and compelling stage presence. It's these same aspects that have propelled them forward in the licensing industry. Each song is written to audibly portray an emotion or relatable scene. It's a cinematic experience; passionate, and even hints at aspects of ethnic and world music.
